
Emergency Preparedness ■ Inclement Weather Emergencies

■ Individual and Group Safety Information

The safety of students, faculty and staff is paramount during inclement weather. Sometimes, conditions in New Haven may be significantly different from those in an individual's location. If conditions are such that traveling may be hazardous, contact your supervisor as soon as possible to inform him/her of your particular situation. In such situations, each person must decide whether traveling to the university is necessary and prudent.