

The 64 Days, which officially begins on January 30, the day Mahatma Ghandi was assassinated, and ends on April 4, the day we commemorate Dr. King's passing, will end this year with a celebration of SCSU Women's Studies Program 35th anniversary. In our 4th annual observation, we continue to celebrate many cultures and heritage months, including Black History Month, Women's History Month, and Asian/Pacific Heritage Month.

1. Feb. 20 (T) A seminar with Irma McClaurin on Black feminist anthropology
2. Feb. 27 (T) A talk with Lucy Anne Hurston on Zora Neale Hurston
3. Feb. 27 (T) A seminar with Layli Phillips on womanism
4. March 1-31 Exhibit of "We Fight for Roses Too"
5. March 5 (F) Screening of "Toilet Training" with the Sylvia Rivera Law Project
6. March 9 (F) One-day symposium:
"Women of Color Writing: Negotiating Gender & Ethnicity"
7. March 12 (M) A talk with Carol Kalatatic on food security and food sovereignty
8. April 10 (T) Ahimsa Timoteo Bodhran on Cherrie Moraga and Chicana literature
9. April 11 (W) Anoush Ter Taulian on Armenian American roots/roots
10. April 13 (F) One-day conference on Reproductive Health and Rights
11. April 14 (S) Fifth Annual National Women's Studies Graduate Conference
12. April 19 (Th) "Resisting Oppression: Acknowledging Unheard Voices of Feminism"
13. April 20 (F) Women's Studies Graduate Open House (7-9 p.m.)
14. April 27 (F) Second Annual Women's Studies Minors Fair
OWL Conference (Opportunity for Women's Leadership)

We'd like to thank all those who have helped in the planning and co-sponsoring: Connecticut Women's Hall of Fame; Faculty Development Office; LGBT Prism Club; Lyman Center; Minority Recruitment and Retention Committee; Planned Parenthood, CT; and Women's Center. For further information please contact the Women's Studies Program 203-392-6133.

SCSU Women's Studies
501 Crescent Street
Engleman B 229
New Haven, CT 06515