

The Center for Coastal and Marine Studies

Announces

The Fourth Annual Long Island Sound Seminar Series

Wednesday, March 14th, 1:00-2:00 pm, Jennings Hall 127

Amy Ferland

Harbor Seal Census Study, The Maritime Aquarium at Norwalk, Norwalk, CT

Seals, Students and the Sound

Tuesday, March 27th, 6:30-7:30 pm, Jennings Hall 127

Tom Andersen

(Author, This Fine Piece of Water: An Environmental History of Long Island Sound)

What is Long Island Sound For?

Wednesday April 4th, 1:00-2:00 pm, Jennings Hall 127

R. Lawrence Swanson

Associate Dean, Marine Sciences Research Center, SUNY at Stony Brook, NY

Perspectives of Long-term Hypoxic Conditions in Long Island Sound

Tuesday April 24th, 6:30-7:30 pm, Jennings Hall 127

Mark A. Tedesco

Director, EPA Long Island Sound Office, Stamford, CT

Is Long Island Sound Improving? Status and Trends in Water Quality and Living Resources

Wednesday, May 2nd, 1:00-2:00 pm, Jennings Hall 127

Jennifer Mattei

Associate Professor and Chair of Biology, Sacred Heart University, Fairfield, CT

A Switch from Polyandry to Serial Monogamy: Results from a Four Year Mark-Recapture Study of Horseshoe Crabs in Long Island Sound

The Fourth Long Island Sound Seminar Series is sponsored by the Center for Coastal and Marine Studies and is supported by an SCSU Faculty Development Grant.

Questions: call James Tait (x25838), Vince Breslin (x26602), or Dwight Smith (x26222)

Refreshments Will Be Served